Book Systems Releases Concourse 8.5

April 21, 2014 -- Book Systems, Inc., a leader in providing library automation solutions, is pleased to announce the release of Concourse version 8.5. Concourse is a Windows-based library automation software and is supported on all current versions of Windows®.

Concourse, Book Systems' legacy product, was introduced in 1995 to run on the Windows 95 operating system. Staying true to the same core that has made Concourse a reliable and sustainable system since its inception, Book Systems has enhanced Concourse with several features to meet the ever-evolving needs of libraries. New features for Concourse 8.5 include MARC tag 264 support for Publisher based on RDA guidelines (import and export), Lexile searching and reporting capability, 20 new Concourse OPAC background images (General, Seasons, Events & Holidays), and multiple URL Links and Display Text. Additionally, enhancements were made for Backups and extra e-mail compatibility.

About Book Systems, Inc.:
