Monroe County School District with 12 schools Move to Atrium

Monroe County is located in Madisonville, Tennessee and serves approximately 5,500 students. The school systems motto, "Education for Tomorrow – Today," is supported by the purchase of the new library software. This move from Concourse to Atrium provides the Web-based software that will enable the teachers and students to access the library from home. The librarians look forward to working with Atrium and all of the great new features.
